The Macon Telegraph congratulates the church at Atlanta on the valuable accession to the society and pulpit of that city, and says that "in the pulpit he is at once profound and entertaining, some of his discourses ranking with the best it ever heard. By nature genial, confiding and affectionate, he won the respect and warmest affection of the young men of Macon of all denominations, over whom his influence was unbounded. The gentle humility of the man and distrust of his physical strength alone have prevented him from occupying the most prominent positions in the gift of the Presbyterian church"

Joe Blackburn.

Washington Capital.

He would above all be equal to any emergency; and as an exponent of the majority of the people's representatives he would stand as a wall of fire against concentrated power, corruption, fraud or usurpation. With the experience of the last thirty months before us, who can tell what momentous events of peace or war may not again be forced upon the country?

It behooves the people, therefore, through their Representatives in Congress, to place no timid or pusillanimous advisors or abettors in mischief in charge of the sacred edifice of constitutional liberty and the people's rights as expressed at the ballot-box. With Mr. Blackburn as Speaker, and surrounded and supported by such men as he could draw around him the country would be safe against surprise and intimidation. No army would again beleaguer the Captol.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, March 11, 1879.

Mr. Speaker Moring called the House to order, and Rev. W. S. Black, of the Edenton Street Methodist Church, offered a prayer.

ALLOWANCE FOR CONVICT LABOR.

The Senate substitute for the bill for support of the Penitentiary for 1879-'80, was read, allowing $90,000 for this purpose, $11,000 for the W. N. C. Railroad, $31,000 for the Penitentiary, and 18 000 for the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad. The Governor to appoint a Board of five Directors, to hold office for four years, to receive $250 per annum.

Mr. Moring moved to amend by making the sum allowed to the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad $30,000, as in the House bill, which was adopted.

Mr. English offered an amendment to make the allowance for the W. N. C. Railroad $40,000.

Mr. Carter, of Buncombe, opposed this amendment, while Messrs. English and Lockhart favored it. The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Coffield moved to amend by making the allowance for the penitentiary $35,000, saying the $30,000 was insufficient. He had thus been informed by the directors. It was a bad place to make an insufficient appropriation.

Mr. Coffield's amendment was put to a vote and lost.

Mr. Mebane offered an amendment to that part of the bill as to the appointment of Directors so that the present Board would not be displaced, which was adopted.

The bill as amended then passed its readings.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Bill to repeal the law providing for a suitable house for the Governor, and that providing for an additional clerk to the Executive department as a special order.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Bill to amend the law relative to the running of Sunday trains, by providing that trains which started on through trips on Saturday may run on Sunday until 9 a. m., to reach their stop, and also permitting the running of trains with U. S. mail, or trains with U. S. mail and passengers.

The bill passed its readings.

OUTSIDE LUNATICS.

Mr. McGeehee moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill taking away the allowance of outside lunatics failed to pass the House yesterday.

The bill was then put upon its second reading, and the yeas and nays being demanded, it passed—yeas 50, nays 44.

Resolution in favor of Richard Clayton, tax collector of Chowan county. Passed.

Bill to allow the bond given by Sheriffs in counties where there was no county treasurer, be enlarged to cover that office, was explained and advocated by Mr. McGehee and passed its readings.

Bill to change the times of holding the Superior Courts of Catawba county to the last Mondays in February and August, passed.

Bill to allow the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of Wilmington to issue $200,000 six per cent. bonds, to take up the floating debt, passed.

Bill to set apart a fund of $1,500 for the payment of jurors in Edgecombe and Craven counties, passed.

Bill to incorporate the Rockingham and Salisbury R. R. Co., came up as a special order.

CONTESTED ELECTION.

The report of a majority of the judiciary committee in the contested election case of J. H. Brooks vs Meares from Brunswick county, was read. It gives all the facts elicited, presenting a mass of testimony in the case. The following is the report of the committee:

Resolved, That J. H. Brooks is the man entitled to a seat on this floor from the county of Brunswick and not A. C. Meares the sitting member.

Upon motion of Mr. Norment the resolution was taken up.

Mr. Etheridge, that the entire testimony and report be printed, which was urged by Mr. Richardson, of Columbus, who said the matter was argued before the courts, but the decision has not yet been rendered.

The motion to print was put to a vote and lost.

The question recurred upon the adoption of the resolution, which, together with the voluminous testimony, was read.

The resolutions were then adopted.

At 3:15 o'clock p. m., the House adjourned.

MRS. MOON

The Great Revivalist at Chapel Hill.

Correspondence of the News.

Mrs. Moon, the Quaker revivalist, is here, conducting a series of meeting in the Methodist church. She preached here on yesterday, Sunday, at 11 p. m. Her fame and the news, of her coming had preceded here, and the house was filled to overflowing, at an early hour

HER APPEARANCE.

She is a plainly dressed, in black, with black bound and a white silk cravat. A gold chain hangs from her neck to her waist. Her face has an air of modesty and intelligence with a high forehead, and prominent nose, rather large mouth, a bright eye—her appearance is decidedly prepossessing. Her voice is pleasant and she speaks distinctly emphasizing well, and has no difficulty in making herself heard to the most distant part of the house.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY OF HER.

There seems to be no difference of opinion on some points. All agree that she speaks well and to the point, that her voice is pleasant, that she is in earnest. She has the power of commanding the attention of her audience. Her speaking is certainly not without effect.

Of course she speaks under considerable difficulties. A large portion of the congregation goes to the church with a decided objection to a woman's preaching, but attend out of pure curiosity. There is a very general regret that she indulges in the singing style of preaching which is said to be characteristic of the preachers of her sect. She only falls into this style when she becomes warmed up with her subject. If she knew how much she impairs the force of her words by this peculiar style, it is probable she would make an effort to leave it off.

Evidently Mrs. Moon possesses considerable power. She preaches in the afternoon, again at night, besides talking in a meeting which she holds in the forenoon. The prospect is that she will arouse considerable feeling here.

Yours,
X.

A poem commences, "Under the willow's he's lying." He must be a tramp. They lie under all sorts of trees. One was discovered lying under an axle-tree the other morning. The owner of the wagon made him wheel right 'round and leave.

The Last Fatal Duel at Bladensburg.

Colonel W. G. Terrell, who has for several years been supplying the Cincinnati Commercial with very interesting accounts of the celebrated duels that have taken place in this country, furnishes that paper with the following, which has been revised by Colonel Jones for the Capital:

WASHINGTON, March, 1879.

I mentioned in my last the fact that Colonel Charles Lee Jones of this city was engaged upon a work on the subject of "Dueling." He has kindly furnished me with the following account of

THE LAST FATAL DUEL FOUGHT NEAR WASHINGTON.

Some time in the winter of 1846 I received a note from Hon. Daniel M. Barringer, then a representative in Congress from North Carolina, requesting me to see him immediately at his rooms on important business. I did so, and was introduced to Dr. H., also from North Carolina, and informed that a duel was impending between Dr. J. and Mr. J., the latter a lawyer of distinction, and both gentlemen of very high social position in North Carolina. Dr. H. was acting as the second of Dr. J., and not being versed in the duelly wished to be advised by me: First, whether being the brother-in-law of Dr. J., he could, consistently with the requirements of the code, serve as his second. I told him there was certainly no objection to his serving. Particularly so if the other side did not object. He replied that they had thus far offered no objection. He then stated secondly, that his principal had informed him that he intended to throw away his fire; and he wished to know if he would be right, with such information, to accompany him to the field. I answered that this was entirely within his discretion.

I was informed that the parties had been intimate personal friends, and that their present attitude grew out of the charge of an improper intimacy between Dr. J. and the wife of the challenger. I was also informed that Dr. J. had settled up his affairs in North Carolina, and if he survived the duel it was his intention to proceed directly to New Orleans and fix himself there in the practice of his profession.

I was further consulted as to the condition of the meeting, and suggested the placing of the parties at twelve paces, back to back, and that they wheel and fire; the words to be: "Are you ready? fire: one, two, three; halt!" neither party to commence wheeling until the word "fire," nor to fire after the word "halt." I also suggested, if these terms were agreed to, that Dr. H. instruct his principal to drop his pistol to an arm in wheeling, receive his adversary's fire, then elevate his weapon and fire in the air, as I thought the movement of the arm and pistol might in some measure distract his adversary's aim; and if after the fire his principal was unhit, and the other side were unsatisfied and insisted upon another fire, which was not probable, he could protest and take his principal from the field. This would have necessitated his procuring another second before the matter could be renewed, and the effect of such delay would probably be the ending of the affair.

The terms suggested by me were drawn up and formally proposed, but were strenuously objected to by the other side, who insisted that on account of the near sightedness of their principal the distance should be shortened to ten paces, and that the firing take place without wheeling. I was again consulted. I informed Dr. H. that the arrangement of the terms of the meeting must be mutual; that he had no more right to dictate them than the other side; that the idea of the challenged party having the privilege of absolutely prescribing the terms of a meeting was a vulgar error. But inasmuch as his principal had communicated to him his intention not to fire at his adversary, he might take advantage of this supposed right, and continue to insist on prescribing the terms in the interest of saving him from harm, as he was exposing his life to a man whose life he did not intend to endanger.

I left the party about midnight, and as the controversy relating to the terms was still going on, I did not suppose that any meeting could possibly take place until the middle of the next day.

About 8 o'clock on the following morning I thought I would call upon Mr. Barringer, and ascertain the result of the negotiations, if any had been reached, and while standing in front of his house, talking with a friend whom I had casually encountered, a hack drove up, out of which sprang Dr. H. and the surgeon who had been engaged to attend Dr. J. to the field. I entered the house with them, and on getting within one of them exclaimed to me, "My God! Dr. J. is killed!"

I learned that shortly after I had left, the night before, the other side had withdrawn their objections and accepted the terms precisely as proposed, and insisted upon an immediate meeting; that they had gone out at daylight, each party accompanied only by his second and surgeon, and had sought the famous old dueling ground where Decatur fell, a secluded spot near the public road, about four miles from Washington and one from Bladensburg. It had been abandoned for such purposes for many years, owing to its notoriety, and the fact that the police of the vicinity were constantly watching it when any rumor existed of a difficulty likely to eventuate in an affair of honor. The parties being all strangers to the neighborhood, were unable to locate this ground, and finding themselves within sight of the village of Bladensburg, selected other ground, and at once proceeded to business. The terms I had suggested were rigidly complied with. At the word "fire" Mr. J. instantly wheeled and fired, hitting his adversary in the head before he had half wheeled, and killing him instantly, a purely accidental shot.

In the meantime they had at once the attention of the people of the village, and immediately upon the conclusion of the affair they were surrounded by the police, who arrested Mr. J. and his party; but Dr. H. and the surgeon managed to effect their escape, leaving the dead body of Dr. J. on the field.

Upon receiving this sad intelligence I volunteered to go out and bring in the body. I procured a hack, and in company with an undertaker, went to Bladensburg. There beheld, stretched on a plank, splendidly dressed, as if for a ball, the body of one of the handsomest specimens of man I had ever seen. His countenance was in perfect repose, and but for the ghastly wound he had received, he would have seemingly been sleeping. I obtained permission from the coroner to remove the body, and delivering it into the custody of the undertaker it was taken to Washington.

The trial of Mr. J. and his party before the coroner was proceeding at the time of my arrival. I found them greatly embarrassed by the situation, and exerting my personal influence in their behalf, succeeded in having Mr. J. discharged on bail, myself becoming his security, to appear at the next term of the court at Upper Marlboro, Prince George county, Maryland. The second and surgeon were discharged without bail.

When the court met (some two months afterward) it was necessary for me to attend. I accompanied Mr. J., and during our drive to Upper Marlboro (sixteen miles from Washington) he remarked to me that his friends were persuading him to take back his wife, whom, on the discovery of her guilty behavior with Dr. J., he had sent to her father's, and he asked me what I thought he ought to do. He stated that he had a large family of young children, that he was greatly attached to his father-in-law, who was one of the most noble and chivalric of gentlemen, and whose heart was nearly broken by the disgrace of his daughter and its fatal consequences, and from these considerations he was inclined to accept the advice of his friends, if he could do it with honor.

I had previously heard the unfortunate woman described as a person remarkably quiet, refined and ladylike, and that her fall was generally attributed to the peculiar advantages afforded her seducer from his professional relations with her, and his seeking the opportunity of her ruin in an hour of weakness. Under all the circumstances, I did not hesitate to advise that, if Mr. J.'s feelings justified the act, to disregard any censure of the world and restore his wife to himself and their children. The grand jury ignored the indictment, and on his return home that of his wife followed.

Thus ended, without undue notoriety or the least excitement to the community, one of those cases where the feelings of a gentleman sometimes render it necessary to resort to the duello. How different is such a mode of settling such difficulties from that which occurred on the streets of Washington, within a few rods of the Presidential Mansion, some thirteen years thereafter, when an unarmed and accomplished gentleman, for such a supposed provocation, was assassinated in the most dastardly manner?

An episode of a very sad and extraordinary nature is connected with this duel. Some three or four years after it took place Mr. J. had removed from his former residence to the county town of a neighboring county. As a lawyer of large practice he was necessarily often from home. During one of these absences a brother-in-law, who had his suspicions aroused at the frequent visits to the house by a person of the very lowest social standing—the keeper of a toll-gate in the neighborhood—brought him in the very act of adultery with Mrs. J., beat him severely and ejected him from the house. This shocking discovery gave rise to the impression that the woman was of unsound mind. A medical examination by her father for a time established the fact and she was placed in an insane asylum. Before her departure, I have been told, she stated that Mr. J. had no claims on her young estate, leaving it to be inferred that it was the offspring of Dr. J., and she was permitted to take it with her.

Mr. J is now dead. Before his death he had become helpless and totally blind; he had always very indifferent vision, and was very near-sighted. And I have lately been told that his unhappy wife, in a state of wretched repentance, beseeched for, and was permitted the privilege of nursing him during his last hours.

Colonel Jones prefers to designate the names of the parties in this affair by their initials. It was conducted with great secrecy, and was barely noticed in the newspapers of the day. This is the first published detailed account of it.

The Freedom of the Press.

Charlotte Observer.

We have read the testimony taken before the legislative committee appointed to investigate, we do not know exactly who or what. We had supposed that the matter to be investigated by the gentlemen composing the committee that we speak of was the charge preferred by the New York Times' Raleigh correspondent against certain members of the Legislature of 1876-77, who had acted as deputy sheriffs carrying the election returns to Raleigh, and against whom it was alleged that on account of this service they had drawn double per diem and mileage. From the reading of the testimony, however, we are persuaded that it was not the legislator-sheriffs but the Raleigh News which was being investigated. Nothing appears from the testimony except a purpose to get at the authorship of certain editorial articles which have lately appeared in the NEWS in reference to the Western North Carolina Railroad. If we, at this distance, have any correct understanding of the circumstances of the case it was the committee's business to examine the charges against the gentlemen who were under the cloud and to report the result of its investigations. It appears to us that when a committee is appointed to hunt up fraud in connection with election returns a legend to have been perpetrated in 1877, it quite transcends its authority when it undertakes to find out who writes certain railroad articles in newspapers in 1878.

This is no affair of ours and we have no interest in it individually speaking, but we cannot permit a legislative committee or any other body of men to thus trench upon the liberties of the press without hitting a voice in protest. Col. Clark, one of the owners, and Mr. Jordan, one of the lessees of the NEWS, did right in declining to answer the impertinent questions put to them as to the paternity of the editorials which have so stirred up the members. We dissent totally from the ground taken by the NEWS in reference to the Western North Carolina Railroad, but we are prepared to make a common cause with it or any other newspaper or newspapers against any set of men who take it upon themselves to pry into the secrets of the sanctum. In plain terms it is no business of the General Assembly who edits any newspaper; if any journal offends personally against any legislator, he can doubtless, upon proper application, be introduced to the offending party. At all events that is early enough for him to begin his inquiries.

Jeff. Davis.

The name of the illustrious rebel—illustrious because the world acknowledges the conscience of himself and his cause—came before the Senate on the last night of the session, and, as usual, caused certain Radicals to parade the stale paper hatchet which has been used for fourteen years as campaign thunder. It is only stage thunder now, for the lightning has expired like the splutter of a pyrotechnic device; and perhaps no more suitable artificial fire-worker could have been found than poor old driveling Hoar, remembered with pity for the merciless treatment he received from Blaine on the occasion of his glance at the history of Massachusetts and Maine when the Kingfather was present'd. Mr. Hoar succeeded in having the name of Jefferson Davis excluded from the pension-roll of the Mexican war veterans. Having shown how ignorant of the history of his own State a Massachusetts senator can be, wisely ignored the history, justice and reason of this case, and placing himself upon purely partisan technicality, opened the old tirade against the South. It was an occasion when any senator, feeling like a patriot the dignity of his country, and his own, might have rebuked the mule-headed inconsistency of throwing venom at Davis when the country countenances and owns in its national council Aleck Stephens, Ran. Tucker and Reagan, all pillars of the Confederate government, whom the United States declined to bring to trial. This patronizing mercy which the Radicals boast of at times is thought by most fair-minded Northern men to have been more of a necessity than a virtue. Certain it is that some learned lawyers who investigated the question of trying the ex-President of the Confederacy were of the opinion that the only result to be attained would have been to exhume some ugly chapters of unpublished history that might have blurred the fair and luminous shine of Republican reputation.

The bloody shirt is no longer the oriflamme of a party; that post-bellum banner, so bravely flung to the breeze by men who never dared to stand by their country's flag when set in the stricken field, serves only now as the private pennon of the extreme Radicals, and will do for a martial shroud for the election laws.

Senator Lamar characterized the harangue against Davis as "wantonness and insult," at which a fierce rap of the gavel, an angry command to be seated, and a glare on the usually cold and cast-iron face of Edmunds, who was in the chair, indicated the official sympathy with the Massachusetts senator.

When the Senate decided the point of order against the chair, Mr. Lamar approached the seemingly dangerous ground with the dignity of a broad-minded statesman, and displayed the strongest possible contrast to the partisan oratory of Mr. Hoar. It was one of those brilliant impromptus whose inspiration is the lightning, not the midnight lamp, and bearing the imprimatur of L. Q. C. Lamar, it stands on the record one of the finest hits ever delivered in the United States Senate, signalizing a remarkable occasion with with the characteristic stroke of a man who, in the field of American politics, towers above his cotemporaries like the ideal palladin.

Death in a Shoe-String.

The shooting of an unfortunate clerk in Richmond the other day is an instance of the tragedy of folly in more senses than one.

He was lacing on a shoe for a young lady, and, as the story goes, made a doubtfully complimentary comment on the beauty of the foot he was handling, and presently, following the fair customer to her carriage, emphasized the compliment with a pressure on the lady's arm. That the young lady was right in placing the pretty foot under the hand and gaze of a youthful shoemaker seems certain to those who believe in the absolute purity of the female mind, and demand professional coolness in a shoemaker's clerk. What is called chivalry in the South is ridiculed as a sentimentality akin to the aristocratic custom of the duello; but it is in fact a sentiment deep in the blood of the people, and felt by peasant and gentleman alike; so that those who profess it—blacksmith, lawyer, carpenter, plowman, merchant or politician—are considered gentlemen, by reason of the value they set on their honor and that of their mothers, sisters, wives and daughters.

A few years ago, in this same city of Richmond, an editor was shot from a third story window, and the dastardly murder passed unpunished, because the provocation was an insinuation against the honor of a woman; and many another instance attests the sacred regard that the Virginians hold for the sanctity of the household gods.

It has often been carried to the same extreme as the price of the House of Orleans did, who shot a man for impugning the honor of the wife whom he had divorced because of her well-known inconstancy.

Women must not only be chaste, but men must believe them so, and death to him who evil thinks, especially when his business demands the handling of shoe strings and garters. A jury will acquit the murderer, and people will say, "This will teach dry goods clerks and shoe makers not to presume on any little nonsense on the part of a woman," which sounds foolish in one sense and grossly unjust in another; but it is a part of a social law above the temporal, and though somewhat barbaric, has the simple and rugged look of primitive virtue; and as long as the Southerners maintain such social laws their poverty or political sins will not affect this sense of honor which pervades all classes and holds scandal and divorce at bay.

It Was at the House

Of a well known Doctor of Divinity, and the little toddling girl, who did not like to see her aunt trim a lighted kerosene lamp, had come honestly by a somewhat modified theory of predestination: "Take care, take care, or you will get blown up into the sky, and then God will say: 'Come what are you in such a hurry for?' Pratt's Astral Oil will not blow up. Is absolutely safe under all circumstances. Burns in any lamp. Julius Lewis & Co., hardware merchants, Raleigh, N. C., sole agents for Pratt's Astral Oil.

"My dear boy," said a mother to her son, as he landed round his plate for more turkey, "this is the fourth time you have been helped." "I know, mother," replied the boy; "but that turkey pecked me once, and I want to get square with him." He got the turkey.

DAILY NEWS

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1879.

HUSSEY & JORDAN, Prop's.

JOHN B. HUSSEY, - Editor.

Robinson's Committee.

At the instance of Mr. James L. Robinson, Senator from Macon county, on the 1st day of March a committee was appointed to inquire into the truth of a certain "report in circulation" to the effect that threats and promises were "made, and improper and undue influences were used by certain parties interested in the question of public printing during the early part or this session of the General Assembly, with a view to control the votes of Senators and Representatives for or against the interests of the said parties interested in determining the question of public printing.

The Committee, consisting of Messrs. Dortch, Snow and Rufus White, was appointed by Mr. Scales, having been called to the chair for that purpose.

Two witnesses, who were supposed to be "interested in the printing," were examined. Walter Clark, of this city, a stockholder in the NEWS, was examined. He affirmed most positively that he had no connection with the NEWS and not the remotest interest in the printing. This testimony stands unimpeached.

Mr. Geo. C. Jordan, one of the proprietors of the NEWS was examined. He was emphatic and pointed in his testimony, denying the use of any "threat or promise" to secure the printing. He used only honorable means and was assiduous in his efforts to secure votes.

Whether the successful candidate for the printing made any "threats or promises" or used any "undue influences" is unknown.

Whether Edwards & Broughton, a large printing house in this city, made any "threats or promises" or used any "undue influences" is unknown.

Mr. Jordan was the only supposed "interested party" examined by the committee. His testimony was printed yesterday, together with a statement which bears the impress of truth.

Mr. Carter's testimony in rebuttal was also printed, and but for the respect we have for that gentlemen we should pooh-pooh his evidence out of court. It is simply mirth-provoking and when that is said it has all the significance that can possibly attach to it.

But this is all aliund e the nm question. It has a grave and serious aspect: A committee is appointed by a law making power to investigate a report in circulation that threats and promi s were made by certain parties to influence the votes of Senators and Representatives" in caucus. [A proceeding unprecedented in the history of political parties in North Carolina.] In the investigation of this "report" the proprietor of a newspaper is called to the witness stand and interrogated sharply as to who wrote certain editorials discussing a question of grave public concern, which in no wise reflected on any individual, Senator or Representative. The witness declines to answer and a committee with an able and experienced lawyer at its head decides that it is a proper question. We shall appeal from Mr. Dortch's decision and submit the case to the country.

THERE was no mistaking Col. Clark's testimony before the Robinson committee. Even Rufus White the Radical end of the concern, could comprehend him when he swore that he had no interest or connection with the NEWS and had no authority to act or speak for it. No effort was made to rebut this testimony. No effort was made to establish his identity with the NEWS, yet the committee pursues him. Pursues the investigation without authority under the resolution of inquiry. Invites and hears testimony reflecting on the editorial conduct of this paper. Assumes with an impertinence unprecedented in Star chamber investigations to demand the author of editorial opinions touching a great public question affecting vitally the tax-pyers of the State. And it is in this way that Mr. Robinson's committee would muzzle the freedom of the press.

Well, the NEWS don't muzzle.

Never?

No never.

What, never?

☞ NEVER.

The "revolutionary Democrats" are determined to keep troops away from the polling places, and believing that the people can insure for themseves, fair elections they are opposed to the undertaking of this business by irresponsible and overpaid Federal stipendaries. Of this sort of "revolution" the American people can stand a great deal. But of the policy or relying upon soldiers and Federal retainers for fair elections they have had more than they will ever again tolerate. No people who desire to be free distrust themselves or ever shrink from the responsibility of looking after their own concerns.

STAND up Mr. Snow.

Did you make any "promises" to any elector in Wake county, with a view to controlling his vote?

Never.

What, never?

Well, hardly ever.

Snow was the only Democrat on the ticket elected, but he made no "promises" we are quite sure. When he makes a "promise" he keeps it.

WOULD champaign be an "undue influence" if administered with a view to control the votes of certain Senators and Representatives? Give us a committee.

THE severe language used in yesterday's paper is no reflection on Col. Clark. It does not appear that he made any "threats or promises" to influence the public printing by authority of the NEWS or that he assumed such authority in whatever action he may have taken in the premises.

WITH the animus of Mr. Robinson's committee in pursuing "that man Clark" we are not concerned. That gentleman is amply able to take care of himself.

State bonds have gone up from 17 to 21 since the passage of the act to compromise the State debt, and nearly $100,000 of the bonds have been already tendered the Public Treasurer for exchange under the act.

A LAWYER of thirty years practice says the Supreme Court of North Carolina is the strongest bench since the days of Ruffin.

THEY NOW say that Robinson's committee whitewashed the NEWS. It does look s(n)o(w) with white on it.

WE HAVE the grand spectacle in North Carolina of a Legislature sitting without pay. Verily, there is some patriotism left.

A LETTER FROM COL. CLARK.

Investigation No. 3, Investigated.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 11

EDITORS NEWS: The report of the investigation published in your columns yesterday, is of little importance to the public, except from the motives and the mode by which it was conducted. To myself it is of deeper interest by reason of the finding of the Committee that "Col. Walter Clark and Geo. C. Jordan did make threats and promises with a view to control the votes of Senators and Representatives in determining the matter of public printing."

The peculiar language of this report as well as the fact that it was made a noticeable exception to the rule prevailing at this session of the General Assembly by the testimony, being ordered to be printed and spread before the public as a delectable bit of Sunday reading gives force and pith to the admission of Mr. Carter that the committee "were after that man Clark," and requires more than a passing notice at my hands.

THE MOTIVES OF THE INVESTIGATORS.

To understand fully the underlying this investigation it will be necessary to recur to the circumstances under which it was first mooted on the floor of the Senate. On the last day of February and after two months of the session had expired, Mr. Robinson the President of the Senate, goaded into apparent madness by a stinging telegram to the N. Y. Times, in regard to his former conduct as a legislator, laid aside, at once his seductive smile and the Speaker's gavel and coming down upon the floor in the course of a furious tirade upon the correspondent of the Times declared that other parties were in his opinion connected with the matter and announced his intention "to carry the war into Africa" by moving an investigation of the course of certain parties in regard to obtaining the Public Printing. He has since openly stated on the floor of the Senate, while confessing his error in this respect, that his intimation of complicity in the Times dispatch referred to me. Consequently his purpose to "carry the war into Africa" referred to me also.

As the result of this avowed purpose to obtain revenge, came the resolution of March 1. It is shrewdly worded. The subject of inquiry is two-fold, but so deftly joined that it seems at a glance but a unit. The committee were to inquire:

"1st. Whether any threats or promises were made and; 2nd. Whether any undue influences were used, by certain parties, interested in the question of public Printing during the early part of the session of this General Assembly, with a view to control the votes of Senators or Representatives for or against the interest of said parties." The avowed purpose of this resolution was to secure a personal revenge on myself for a suspected complicity in the Times letter, charging Mr. Robinson with having drawn double mileage. It was no virtuous indignation which was anxious to vindicate the fair fame of the Senate, but a desire to forge a set off to the charge against the President of the Senate.

A FURTHER MOTIVE.

Previous to this time also, there had appeared some articles in the Raleigh NEWS not entirely favorable to the mode in which appropriations for the Western North Carolina R R. were expended and criticising somewhat sharply, the conduct of the work as a State investment. This fact also seems to have rankled in the bosom of the would-be President of that road and boiled over his white lips during his fierce philippic and against the author of those articles, also he determined "to carry the war into Africa."

THE COMPOSITION OF THE COMMITTEE

Shows still more conclusively that it was the deliberate purpose, not to rebuke corruption but to bull-doze any one who had the boldness—perhaps I should say, the audacity—to differ with the ring of railroad wreckers who are battering on the scanty remains of a State whom this Assembly has declared insolvent and able to pay only one dollar in five of its admittedly honest and just debt.

Mr. President, pro tem, Scales—the especial champion in the Senate of the Coalfields & Yadkin Valley combination which appropriated $50,000 (by the change of front of the colored troops and the Speaker's casting vote) to pay the debt of a railroad, a large part of which debt consisted (it has been charged and not denied) of usurious and compounded interest—appointed the Committee. The two democratic Senators appointed were the two who were known to be the most hostile to the NEWS of the entire 50 Senators. Mr. Dortch had spoken against the NEWS in caucus, and denounced it upon the ground "that it should be punished for having advocated the claims of Gov. Vance for the Senate in preference to all others who had claims upon the Senatorship"—a doctrine which was peculiarly obnoxious to a man of Mr. Dortch's political appetite. Mr. Snow, the second on the committee had likewise spoken against the News in caucus and had been given a supper by the typographical union for having denounced the NEWS because it saw fit to employ men who chose to regulate their own wages instead of yielding to the tyrannical dictation of that organization. The other members Messrs. Eaves and White were mere Radical ciphers who had no sort of interest in the question, whether a democratic caucus was bull-dozed in the selection of a Public Printer. This packed and prejudiced jury, against the Democratic half of which a challenge propter affectum, would lie in any court of justice, was charged by the resolution to inquire as to what? Let the careless reader turn to the resolution and see. They were charged to inquire as to threats and promises and undue influences exerted "to control the votes of Senators and Representatives." By the way, what had the Senate to do with the action of members of the House.

But to

THE WITNESSES.

Mr. Jno. M. Moring the last syllable of whose name has been rendered significant of more than a mere passing co-incidence by his course in this matter is the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the only speaker in our State who is known to have come down from his place to advocate upon the floor the passage of a railroad bill, appropriating $50,000 to pay a debt of a railroad company accumulated largely of usurious and compounded interest—and not only advocated it but begged and entreated members, if they were conscientiously opposed to the bill to be silent and not vote upon it. As the NEWS whose sins it seems I am fated to bear and for whose faults it would appear, I must vicariously atone had not been favorable to these specious grabs upon an almost depleted treasury, Mr. Moring is a very swift and willing witness. In the last Senatorial contest by his sinuous course he was able to secure the support of the friends of hostile aspirants to the Senatorship. In railroad measures he has been equally ambidextrous and now wishing to avoid exposures which might be justly anticipated, like the cuttle fish, he trusts to escape through the murky waters of his own creation. He says that he does not repeat my conversation exactly, and as to the rest he is entitled to that which belongs to the dead—charity to his memory. Mr. Carter is an innocent young legislator from Buncombe, who did not know that he had been bull-dozed until some one told him of it, and is not quite sure of it yet. Mr. Jno. G. Bynum of Burke, who made a fair statement, under protest, and whose course was that to have been expected of a high-toned honorable man, and Geo. Leach who said that his principle was to fight those who opposed him. These were all the witnesses called and examined by the Committee, before whom Mr. President Robinson appeared as prosecutor, who had any knowledge of any threats or promises made by anybody. This resolution requires the Committee to examine as to influences brought against the interests of the suspected parties, but no such evidence was taken.

THE TESTIMONY.

Everyone of these witnesses agree as to one thing—a most astounding fact when we consider the professed object of this investigation, viz: That there was no question before the General Assembly on printing, it was not possible any should arise, at the time of the conversations given, in regard to the public printing. On the contrary it appears from the testimony of every one of them, that the committee had been already appointed and that the conversations in question could have referred only to the action of the caucus. So we have the novel spectacle of a committee of the Senate, gravely engaged, with an ex-Confederate Senator at its head in investigating and administering the conduct and discipline of a Democratic caucus! But what is this testimony. There is a contest for the public printing between two aspirants pending before the Democratic caucus. According to Mr. Moring I tell him that if he can do nothing for the NEWS, he should do nothing against it; that he might stay away from the caucus; that he might need the help of the NEWS and that the NEWS will stand by its friends. The unsuspecting Mr. Carter, was told by Mr. Jordon, he says, that a newspaper ought to stand by its friends and fight its enemies. MR. Bynum says I told him that if the NEWS should publish a statement of what had been expended on the Western Road it would militate against the road, but that this was not intended to affect his vote as he was for the NEWS and it was not communicated to any one else. Gen. Leach said I told him the NEWS would stand by its friends and fight its enemies, and he testifies that is his own principle in life.

This is every tittle of the evidence as to threats and promises. It was on the eve of a Democratic caucus and in regard to a matter in reference to which no Senator or member was entitled to vote. Now without considering the rebutting evidence at all, without considering that after it was shown that I was not an agent or authorized to speak for the NEWS and had not so represented myself the committee should have ruled out all conversations held with me, under every principle of justice and according to their promise to do so; what is the broadest finding that can possibly and truthfully made upon the evidence? Very clearly an attempt had been made to influence Democrats, in caucus assembled, to support the NEWS, as against the Observer, by appealing to their interests as members of the party. Yet the Committee report that I made "threats and promises to control the votes of Senators and Representatives." The Committee did not dare to state the whole truth by adding to their finding the words: "In the Democratic caucus assembled," because the whole State would have laughed at the farce it disclosed. For a similar suppressio veri, one of old "gave up the ghost, and the young men wound him up and took him out and buried him," as the people of this State will bury this Committee and its procurers and instigators when they fully understand their acts and motives.

THE REAL OBJECT.

As is evident from the whole testimony, was to discover who was the author of the articles in the NEWS in regard to the Western N. C. Railroad. "Who," asks the eager prosecutor, "wrote these articles?" It is objected that the question is not pertinent to the enquiry. No matter; the question is pressed, "Did Walter Clark write them?"

Who is bold enough to dare impugn the sanctity of the idol whose servitors are so royally provided for? Who dares to rebuke extravagance, and folly, and waste in that body which has the speakers of both Houses as its especial champions; which makes and unmakes men, controls conventions and parties, smothers inquiry, and is ever crying for "more, more" like the two daughters of the horse leech? This is the milk in the cocoa nut. The man must be known that he may be crushed.

When the notorious Laffin was leaving Raleigh for the last time, some one asked him as he sat on the "bus" before the Yarboro House when he was coming back. "Coming back" said Laffin in surprise what in h—l is there to come back for?" The people have been resting in that belief for years and until these articles in the NEWS, there has been no exposition of the fact that there is still a "ring" and one whose optics are keen enough to find something to appropriate where Laffin could not.

The railroad combination was alarmed. It must discover and punish the man who had dared impugn their right to rule. They knew that if they did not, the lights would be turned on; that next summer when the fingers of the tax-gatherers reached into their pockets to gather money to tunnel inexhaustible quicksands and pay usurious interest, three hundred thousand tax-payers would awake from their lethargy and wonder if Littlefield had returned.

No other hypothesis can explain the action of the committee. They were directed to investigate parties "interested in the public Printing." I had no more interest in the public printing than a native of Timbuctoo has in the Chinese question. The evidence shows that conclusively. Yet the entire investigation is directed at me. They are directed to enquire as to threats and promises made to Legislators, yet they are chiefly concerned as to articles on the Western N. C. R. R. and the TIMES dispatch. Every fact and circumstance connected with the resolution, the committee, the conduct of the investigation shows conclusively that it was an attempt to direct the whole power of the State against one man—to stifle free discussion, to muzzle the press, a conspiracy to defame and persecute. The prosecutor and mover of the resolution was the would be President of the Western N. C. R. R; the President pro tem who selected the committee, Mr. Scales was a Director on the Western N. C. R. R, who resigned temporarily during the session of the Legislature; the chairman of the committee, Mr. Dortch was also a Director on the same road and Mr. Snow was chairman of the committee on the road who was so unable to see its defects that he did not report a landslide of 8,000 cubic feet into "mud-cue" which took place as it were under his nose. The rest of the committee were radicals and every witness called for the prosecution were warm advocates and prominent ones of the Western N. C. Railroad and some of them of the Coalfield subsidy besides. Now let the public say if this was the fair play which they require to place a verdict above suspicion. I denounce this attempt to divert the machinery of government to such purposes and appeal to the people who will soon feel the hand of the Sheriff on their depleted purses to consider whether that is the purpose for which they have sent their representatives here.

FOR MYSELF.

I have been a not inactive member of the Democratic party. I have given to its support my time and money without stint. I grew up with it and am of it, but I will not sit quiet when some of its servants seek to make it an engine of oppression or a vehicle of extravagance or fraud. It is a noble party but it can only remain such while it remains a party of free thought and counts the light of noon day to be poured upon its acts and policy.

IN CONCLUSION.

An unpremeditated conversation intended to help a poor but deserving young man in his struggle for the Public Printing has been seized upon and distorted to crush a private citizen who had the insight to perceive, and the firmness to express in public his condemnation of the conspiracies by which the Public Treasury was being robbed before his eyes. The mere conjecture that I gave the information or composed the articles in the NEWS exposing these workings, coupled with the interest I had manifested for the success of that paper in its candidacy for the printing furnished the pretext and forthwith all the artillery of State, the machinery of legislation, the combined array of two railroad corporations is put in motion to crush me.

Since he can neither be intimidated nor bought the order goes forth "that man Clark" must be crushed. Independence is catching among men of Anglo-Saxon race and the security of appropriations and schemes depended upon crushing the first to offend.

This, my countrymen, is the head and front of my offending. I have endeavored to keep the light handed long fingered bondholders and subsidizers out of your pockets. When I saw that over half of your State taxes were to be levied and collected, not for your government and protection, but to foster railroad monopolies I protested.

"Unshaken, unseduced, unterrified. "My faith I kept; my loyalty, my zeal"

I have been the first to feel the potency of the anger of this railroad combination that assumes to rule North Carolina. Next Fall when the tax-gatherers come, three hundred thousand tax-payers will be my fellow sufferers.

They judge me contrary to law. They will tax you under the forms of law. They "investigate" me. They will pillage you.

Mr. Editor, I thank you for this space in your columns. What I have said has been less from a sense of personal grievance than from a determination to uphold the great principles of Freedom of the Press, Freedom of Thought and Speech, the right of trial by jury, and from that innate sense of fair play, all of which have been outraged in this prosecution. I have no concessions to make to the huge monopolies that oppress us, and to the public

"I stretch forth these hands
"To show you that they still are free."

Respectfully,
WALTER CLARK.

What Hampton Says.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

CHARLESTON, S. C., march 9.—Senator Hampton, in an interview with a correspondent to-day, said that he was as yet uncertain whether he would be in Washington at the extra session, although he would go if he possibly could and his doctors would allow it. In case the business was particularly important he will go anyhow. In reply to a question as to his opinion concerning the action of the House in refusing to pass the appropriation bills, he replied that he thought that the House was right. He would favor Congress sitting for ever if necessary, before it receded an inch from its position. He did not think Mr. Hayes would have a right to oppose the amendments if Congress continued to urge them, as such action would show that they were the will of the people.

Our Man Ardrey.

Southern Home.

The other speech was the one delivered by Capt. W. Ardrey, on the abolition of the State Board of Agriculture. The speech was copied in full by the Raleigh NEWS, and is a sensible and manly tribute to the agricultural interests of the State.

THE gossip occasioned by the sudden collapse of the Vanderbilt will case continues, but it is only just to note the fact that all the persons interested in the case who care to speak upon the matter, continue their former denials that there was any compromise between the principals. It is acknowledged that William H. Vanderbilt stand ready to fulfil the promises to his relatives made a year ago, but it is denied that this indicates a compromise of any sort, inasmuch as the proponent had been willing from the first to do this.

FOR

CHILLS, SHAKES,

FEVER AND AGUE.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

DR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, has done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain, all of the time; the pain was so great he did nothing but cry. All doctors did me no help in a particle. He could not lift his foot from the floor, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the "Louisville Courier-Journal," that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken eighteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health, walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to chills. Whenever he acts as one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine and that is the last of the Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like the most of the medicines recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world.

Respectfully, MRS. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

Valuable Educational Works

Sanford's Series Analytical Arithmetics

AND

Worcester's Dicti

Sanford's Series comprises four books, and is based upon the analytic system:

Sanford's First Lessons in Analytical Arithmetic, 16 mo., 27 cents.

Sanford's Intermediate Analytical Arithmetic, 16mo., 232 pp. Half bound, 45 cents.

Sanford's Common School Analytical Arithmetic, 256 pp. Half roan, 80 cents.

Sanford's Higher Analytical Arithmetic, 8vo., 419 pp. Half roan. Cloth sides, $1.25.

The definitions are clear, and the analyses exhaustive. The work is practical, and abounds in slate exercises. The experience of a large number of the best teachers in this country, is that, with Sanford in hand, pupils discover an unwonted enthusiasm in studying the science of numbers.

The Complete Series of Worcester's Dictionaries.

Quarto Dictionary. Illustrated and Unabridged. Library sheep, $10.

Octavo (Universal and Critical,) Dictionary. Library sheep, $4.25.

Academic Dictionary. Crown 8vo. Half roan, $1.85.

Comprehensive Dictionary, Illustrated, 12 mo. Half roan, $1.75.

School (Elementary) Dictionary. 12mo. Half roan, $1.

Primary Dictionary. Illustrated 16mo. Half roan, 60 cents.

Pocket Dictionary. Illustrated 24mo. Cloth 63 cents; Roan, illustrated, 85 cents, roan, tucks, gilt edges, $1

Many special aids to students, in addition to a full pronouncing and definitive vocabulary, make the above-named books, in the opinion of our most distinguished educators, the most complete as well as by far the cheapest Dictionaries of our language.

Worcester's School Dictionaries are based upon the quarto, which is preferred over all others by eminent scholars and men of letters. The series is admirably adapted to use in Schools, Academies, &c.

☞ Liberal terms for introduction. We desire that Sanford and Worcester be examined by county Boards and principals of private schools. Correspondence solicited.

We invite attention of Teachers to Chauvenet's Mathematics, Cutter's Physiology; in a word, all our School publications. Circulars and descriptive catalogue furnished on application.

The Southern Heart.

Post-Court Index-Appeal.

"The heart of the South at the feet of G. d."

HARRY FLASH!

The Southern heart! ah could it show
Its late experience, wrought in words,
How would the vital record glow,
How burning tear- and bi ing swords!

How would the n tions tar y long,
Where the thick walls the story tell,
Of all its bu-d ning wee and wrong,
Of all high hopes that broke and fell!

As wrong Carthage, love his guide,
Eneas in-ved, and saw the past,
And all Troy's war and woe descried,
In Tyrian vistas, vague and vast.

And if great Hector's fall and stain,
Of Priam's grief, As a ius's fears,
Decuba's hopeless pangs—the rain
Of Grecian blows a d Trojan t ars;

Thus through our southern gallery,
hung
With scenes of glory and of gloom,
All war's will weeds of grief, o'er-
hung
With war's will wreaths of glorious bloom—

As the world wander; stately stone
And lines of fire and bronze of life,
Its mist-i quent, silent tone,
Telling the story of the strife.

Leaving all untold the grand Late might of woman's patient faith,
Upon which the heroes of the land
Drew the high spells that vanquish'd death.

Recall the Temple shine, with fame
Of patriots, gl rious in their fall—
Of deeds of victory writ in flame
In dark Ener final conquest's pall.

And darker yet the tides of peace
That swept the souls of those who live;
Ba at once the ruins' surcea e
And the ingr-titude to forgiv .

Brother's hand on brother's heart,
Pressing a blow his plaited keen;
Prone, unwonted, many a dart
Re fixed where joy and hope had been.

Blind mistrust and wrathful word
Of mutual scorn the sections mov'd,
The white angel Death appeared
And taught the sisters how they lov'd.

Till their hollow feud was hush'd,
And time the North her bounty
sped—
Clear, calm face with pity flush'd,
Like dawn, on glacia l summits, red.

And time the South, in sack-cloth
bow'd,
Let take her amber'd praise and prayers—
Through struggling through its cloud,
Her face she mide its tears.

Recall her pictur'd past new light,
Its from her sister's love and cheer;
Of the long gallery, wrapped in
night,
The fresh beam falls, whi s noon is near.

And bloom its stillness breaks
And kindred eyes, where memories wept,
Renew a chord of kindness makes,
Which many an ancient love that kept.

Then God who's angel Dash,
Through hours were told and eyes
were wet,
Let North and South the sacred plain
Of unity love, and Union yet!

E. S. G.

Trailing Arbutus.

Wake up the trees, O March and make
The torpid buds, and bid them
blow;
The hair of pine and cedar shake,
And toss it to and fro!

Drive off the lemba thed clouds
apace,
Old Winter's lingering dur:
Enter their ranks, and show
Some glimpse of the sun!"

Let the red rose, blue vi let,
Wherein the wh -flowers snowy
bloom,
Let these not—their time's not yet—
Forbid the sweet perfume.

The sweet p rfume, the roseate
flowers,
Of the arbutus bring, I pray;
Then I'll wait the golden hours
Of April and of May.

Those fragrant gems let bask and grow,
Be long, beneath the eye of one Whose smiles on them and me shall show
That Spring-time has begun.

Bloody Affair In Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA, March 11.—At 3:20 p. m. to-day the office of State Treasurer at the Capitol, in this city, was the scene of a bloody tragedy, the parties being Col. Robt. A. Alston, member of the Legislature, and Capt. E. F. Cox, of Dekalb county. Alston fired three shots and Cox two. Alston was shot in the right temple, the ball passing through his brain. Cox was shot in the mouth and through the left hand. Alston is dying—Cox is not seriously hurt. The difficulty arose from Alston having power of attorney from Senator Gordon to sell the latter's interest in the State convict lease. Cox is a sub-lessee under Gordon, and wanted Alston to sell Gordon's interest to Walters, who had promised to buy Cox out. Alston sold to another person. Cox threatened Alston at noon that he would kill him before sun down, if the trade was not cancelled and made with his man. He hunted Alston down—Gov. Colquitt and others having detained Alston at the Capitol. The quarrel was resumed, and both drew their pistols with the result above stated.

Later.—Col. Alston died at 4 minutes after six o'clock this evening.

The Speakership.

Washington Star.

Outside of the total claims made by the nationals, the speakership contest is still in a state of suspense. Mr. Blackburn has established headquarters in one of the parlors at Willard's hotel, and Speaker Randall is expected to take a parlor during the day. The greenback men have their headquarters at the Metropolitan hotel, and are "groomed" by Col. Lee Crandell of Pennsylvania, and "Plan" Buchanan of Indiana. They still claim that they have fifteen votes pledged, and that neither the democrats nor republicans can fix up a slate for the House organization under the dictum of King Caucus, for the reason that neither of them, without foraging in the camp of the nationals, have the sufficient number of votes to make a quorum of the whole House. Yesterday

A LETTER FROM REPRESENTATIVE LOW,

of Alabama, was received, who adheres to his allegiance to the nationals, and says that he will act with them, caucus with them and vote with them every time. A telegram, they say, has also been received from Hendrick B. Wright, of Pennsylvania, who likewise announces that he is a national and will act with them. If the greenbackers' claim that they have fifteen members is correct, it is as plain as the nose on one's face that the Speakership contest cannot be settled in caucus. The full membership of the House, with all the cripples on hand, is 287 members. Of these there is scarcely any dispute that the republicans have 130. Deducting these 130, and there remain of democrats and nationals 157 members. Concede the claim of the nationals to 15 votes, and there remain for the democrats only 142 votes, which is two less than a majority of the House necessary to elect a speaker.

THE GREENBACKERS SAY

that if a democrat whose financial record is not objectionable to them, is presented as a candidate for the Speakership, and if he can get the full support of his party, that they will turn in and help to elect him. In connection with such a possible coalition the name of Congressman Bright, of Tenn., is most favorably mentioned. Such a coalition, however, they demand shall be upon the basis that whoever may be agreed upon, must keep entirely aloof from the Democratic caucus and act with the Nationals.

MR. BLACKBURN FEELS HOPEFUL,

nay confident, that Speaker Randall cannot be re-elected. Just how he arrives at the conclusion, or indeed how Mr. Randall figures out his own strength, is not patent to the eyes of the most observant. There are a great many members away, the contest has not taken a definite shape, and gossip, just now inspires confidence, which subsequent events may knock into smithereens. It is plain that there is a strong feeling of opposition to Mr. Randall, but whether it can be held together and concentrated is the problem which just now not only perplexes the ex-Speaker, but his enemies. Still, Mr. Randall is a keen political observer and while his friends may play the game of brag and bluster, it must be conceded to the man that whatever effective work he does, he does in his own quiet way. He will not be caught asleep, and if beaten it will be in a contest managed by his own cool head and master hand. About Wednesday night the pot will begin to boil in dead earnest.

THE TOBACCO TAX.

Provisions in the Internal Revenue Bill Interesting to Tobacco Dealers.

The Internal revenue bill, passed a few days since by Congress, makes some very important changes in the revenue laws of the country. It is made a misdemeanor for a collector or deputy collector to issue any stamps before payment in full has been made. The powers of internal revenue agents are increased. They are clothed with powers of entry and examination the same as other officers of the internal revenue. The legislation relative to the manufacture of whiskey takes up a large portion of the bill. A resume of that part of the law regarding tobacco is given as follows.

The tax on tobacco in all forms, manufactured and otherwise, which includes snuff, and upon all substitutes for tobacco, is fixed at 16 cents per pound. Every dealer in leaf tobacco shall make daily entries in two books, one to be furnished by the Government, the number of pounds of leaf tobacco purchased or received by him in any way, from whom received or purchased, the number of pounds sold or shipped and the names of the persons to whom sold or shipped. One of these books shall be kept at his place of business, open at all hours for the inspection of any internal revenue officer or agents. All fine cut chewing tobacco and all other kinds of tobacco not otherwise provided for shall be put in packages containing one, two, three, five, eight and sixteen ounces, except that fine-cut tobacco may, at the option of the manufacturer, be put up in wooden packages containing ten, twenty, forty and sixty pounds each. The manner in which other kinds of tobacco not mentioned in the two preceding sentences remains unchanged.

The existing condition that no cigar manufacturer shall employ a person that is not a duly registered cigar-maker in the manufacture of cigars is removed.

Cigars shall be packed in boxes not before used for that purpose, containing respectively 25, 50, 100, 200, 250 or 500 cigars each, and into no other form or numbers; provided that to retail dealers, upon satisfactory evidence allowance may be made for or a redemption made of stamps issued which may be spoiled, destroyed or rendered useless, or which, through mistake, may have been improperly or unnecessarily used, or where the rates of duty represented thereby have been in any manner wrongfully collected.

Politicians Against the People.

Springfield Republican.

Outside of Congress, the political profession has actively pushed two candidates, Grant and Tilden. These distinguished gentleman are having the whole field to themselves, but there is one very important fact in regard to the candidature of each of them: It is the premature device of politicians. People who hold office and live in a certain sense by administrations may keep up a keen interest in presidential candidates all the time, but the average American has more sense. He must have a reaction from the intense interest of a national canvass, and in the mean time the politicians arrange things with great labor and apparent success, ominous portents fill the sky by their reading of the auspices, and strange things are talked of. In the third year of an administration, particularly, the politicians set up the old clothes of the most illustrious Americans, bulge them with sawdust, and imagine they have decided the next campaign. How often a dead striking have they seen the test of popular opinion overthrow all the nice-laid plans of mice and men—particularly the former! The dark horse may be an uncertain animal, but the people seize upon him in preference to a put-up trade.

The Celebrated Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass

This is decidedly the most useful, besides being the most efficent Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache it may be truly said, to have no equal Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases.

Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetis;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. Send worth of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.

Ye muses nine, inspire my pen,
To sing of Fayetteville streeet, No 19,
Who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,

Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids your all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too.

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

To the Readers of this Paper.

Most of you are familiar with our "Bible Propositions" which have been published in this paper for over two months. We are glad to know, that several hundred of you have already availed yourselves of its benefits, and realized, to some extent, the wonderful virtues of the "Seven Springs Mass." Being induced to try it on account of the fairness of the proposition. We fully expected some few would demand the "Prize." Thus far not one has put in a claim. On the contrary, we have been the recipients of "Bibles," and other tokens of appreciation expressive of gratitude and acknowledgments for having called their attention to the remedy.

Our object for making that offer, was to relieve headaches, for which we regard as a case of neuralgia, is in reality only a symptom of more serious and complicated disease, it was therefore, more to reach these complaints. (the names of which we dislike to publish in news papers.) Knowing if the Mass was properly used for headache, the patient would discover its great value for other diseases, and we are glad to say, the plan has succeeded well, as evidenced from hundred of correspondents, and the rapidly increasing demand for the Mass—and is being sold by all Druggists.

For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud, Lee & Co., and F. H. Heartt, Raleigh, N. C.

Dread and despair fall upon the community when a terrible epidemic, like the cholera or yellow fever, suddenly desolates our homes; yet, all the while, a more insidious, but no less fatal foe, enters thousands of households every year and carries off the flower of the family in the early flush of manly youth and budding womanhood People call it presumption, or "decline." It is not, in most cases, the tuberculiar phthisis or consumption of the lungs, which is the peculiar malady in climates like those of the British Islands and New England, but a general decay or arrest of the vital processes of nutrition. All the doctors agree that there is no remedy for this but COD LIVER OIL but they are constantly met by the obstacle of inability on the part of the patient to swallow or retain it. This repulsion is entirely overcome by SCOTT'S EMULSION OF THE OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA which is agreeable to the taste and an unequaled nutrient and tonic for the body nerves and brain.

A Remedy that has been Remedied.

The invincible repugnance felt by almost every one to the smell and flavor of Cod Liver Oil, has prevented tens of thousands of the victims of debility, from reaping the benefits of its peculiar healing and nutritive properties. The almost hopeless consumptive, the martyr to rheumatism, the barely living shadow of men, women and children that emerge from the cluthes of malarial fevers, all of these know, or at least their doctors know, that of all discovered remedies, this Oil is the best and often the only one that will build up their wasted bodies, and restore their shattered nerves, and far more effective than the Oil by itself is Scott's Emulsion of it, with the Hypophosphite of Lime and Soda. This is the purest and most natural food and medicine in the world, and wholly deprived of its disagreeable qualities. Sold by Wm. Simpson, Druggist. March 4 d&w3w

FROM A PROMINENT VETERINARY SURGEON.

Mr. Wm. M. Gilks, Chemist, Sir:—I have practiced extensively in Europe and America, and your new discovery, Liniment Oil of Ammonia, surpasses anything I ever used for splints, strains, lameness in the hocks or shoulders, weakness across the kidneys, wind galls and hard, bony swellings on the joints. It is truly marvelous.

Yours very truly,
RALPH OGLE,
Veterinary Surgeon, 330 W. 25th St., N. Y.
Sold by all Druggists.

Rescued, Restored, Revived.

It is marvellous how the rounded outlines of the form are restored, the pale and sallow cheek vivified with the ruddy hue of health; the muscular fibre braced and strengthened, the nervous system and the organs toned and invigorated, by the steady use of Scott's Emulsion of pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It is by far the most elegant and effective preparation in the whole catalogue of medicines, and in the disorders indicated by scrofula, consumption chronic coughs, and the various forms of debility, it is a wonderful remedy. It is also deprived of all its disagreeable properties, and as sweet and palatable as cream. feb 14 1y
